Mahe & Co.

Mahe & Co the Virginia City dry goods merchants are now acknowledged to lead everything in the State in the way of variety and cheapness of price. Its purchasing connections in New York are such that it can buy at rates which give it an immense leverage over all competitors and it gives its customers the advantage which it enjoys. It now has an extensive trade in Carson which is daily increasing. Its aim is to make new patrons and hold its old ones. It does this by a uniform courteous treatment of customers, by taking as much pains to please a lady who buys a spool of cotton as one who orders a $100 bill of goods.

This is the secret of the firm's great success with the people of this city. In another column will be found an entirely new line of goods. For variety and price it would be difficult to find a competitor.

A Card.

Truckee, Cal., Jan. 16, 1896.

To Whom it may Concern:—

Whereas a certain article appeared in the Carson APPEAL of Sunday, Jan. 12, and was copied in the Truckee Republican of January 15, wherein it was stated that the burning of McNulty occurred in either the back part of J. L. Lewiston's store or the back part of the "saloon adjoining," the same is hereby acknowledged to be a mistake, as I had not familiarized myself sufficiently with the premises, to know whether the saloon I meant, was adjoining or not. I had reference to the Exchange saloon at that time, and not to Mr. Fogarty's, and I make this explanation as an apology to Mr. Fogarty, of my own free will, and trust that the public will understand it as I do.

THE TRUCKEE OUTRAGE.

The Truckee Republican Gives Its Views of the Affair.

The last issue of the Truckee Republican gives the following reason of the burning of Pat McNulty a former resident of this city.

During the past week or more a rumor has been afloat about town to the effect that Pat McNulty, a well known character in these parts, who was taken to the county hospital a few weeks ago had died and that the direct cause was due to a mischievous prank played on him some time ago. There is no truth whatever in the rumor. Pat has been out of the hospital for sometime and is now somewhere in Placer county—in all probability in the county jail at Auburn.

The Truckee Republican in its issue of yesterday continues by stating that on or about the 6th of December last Pat McNulty, a character well known to almost every man, woman and child (more especially to the peace officers) of Nevada, and Placer counties entered the store of J. L. Lewiston & Co., while on of his drunken spree Pat went to the office in the rear part of the store and asked Mr. P. M. Doyle who was busy at his books, for a drink. Mr. Rodgers was present and, knowing Pat to be very witty, the two joked with him a few seconds. Charles E. Byrne who is clerking for J. L. Lewiston, then entered the store and picked up a bottle and in a jocular manner said to McNulty: "Here's a drink Pat," at the same time holding it out to him. At this juncture McNulty threw himself around and struck the bottle, part of its contents evidently spilling over his coat collar, although Byrne was not aware of it at the time. The old man then seated himself in a chair close by and Mr. Byrne went to the front of the store to wait on a customer who had just entered.

This finished, Byrne went to the rear of the store again and picked up a cigar, smoke. He rested on some clothing next to Pat, who was then bent forward in his chair, pausing to himself. The young man, who was then engaged in conversation with one of the other gentlemen, proceeded to light his cigar, and not thinking of Pat at the time threw the match down after he had secured a light. Unfortunately on the part of Byrne the match dropped on McNulty's coat in the back and ignited the alcohol which had been spilled over him. Naturally enough it made quite a flame, and Doyle, who was still busy with his books jumped from the desk instantly and threw a big coat over the blaze which smothered and put it out. From this Pat McNulty received a very slight burn on the back of his neck, which would not even make sore on the average persons. But McNulty continued sleeping out of doors and drinking whisky as was his custom, which resulted in his catching cold, and making quite a sore on his neck, which amounted to hardly a pin scratch in the beginning. When Mr. Byrne noticed McNulty's neck was getting sore he got a permit and sent him to the hospital where he remained but three days when he was discharged as well as ever.

The Standard Dictionary.

The APPEAL is in receipt of the Standard Dictionary, published by the Funk and Wagnalls Co.,

It is about the weightiest collection of the English language we have ever seen. It tips the scales at 24 pounds and in perusing the volume we have run on to a good many words we did not notice in the old office dictionary. We have been in the habit of using. It has little scolloped places dug out of the edges of the leaves so that you can find any letter you want in the dark.

There don't seem to be any word on the earth that you can't find in the book. It is a consolidation of all the big authorities in spelling ever known to man, with many of the colors of the rainbow. Peace now reigns in the APPEAL office now that the old habit of rowing with a travelling type about the way to spell a word and then banging him over the head with a mallet to beat our style of spelling into him is a thing of the past. The new Standard Dictionary settles all wars over words of doubtful orthography and there has'nt been a single gun drawn since it arrived.

All other dictionaries take off their hats to this when they meet it on the road.

THE BOCUS OPIUM.

Hazel Clark Implicated in the Deal.

When the first public notice was made of the discovery of the opium at the race track, about a week ago Hazel Clark the leader of the demomonde in this city suddenly disappeared. Her departure did not occasion any comment until it was discovered yesterday that she was the leader of the bogus opium gang operating in this city. The gang consisted of Frank McIntire, (who killed a man in Lincoln county in 1880 and was pardoned out recently) Lee Brooks, Harry Butts and a man named Kerres.

Mabel Jordan has also skipped and is supposed to be in the deal with a man living with her.

The police have another woman under suspicion, but up to date the evidence is not sufficient to arrest her. She is under a strict watch and can not leave town.

The plan was to sell bogus and genuine opium and the parties who got fooled at the bogus stuff did not dare make any outcry and so the game went on. They also smuggled the genuine opium and sold it.

For the past year the elegantly dressed and expensive jeweled woman, Hazel Clark was a subject of comment with the other members of the frail sisterhood, as no other woman following the same living was able to spend so much money.

The officials are rounding up the whole gang, and each day the manipulators of the plot become more extensive as the matter is probed.

Hazel Clark fled the day the stuff was unearthed, and is now a week ahead of the officers. There is not the slightest clue as to her whereabouts.

Card From Mr. Raycraft.

THE APPEAL.—In reference to the Truckee deal, I would like to say a few words on behalf of myself as well as Mr. Lane. I simply had the power of attorney to sell people's property, for which I gave Mr. Lane a bond and for which Mr. Lane paid considerable money. Outsiders soon made this a dark for Mr. Lane after he had taken possession of the property. Some parties went so far as to commence operation on ground that I had bonded to Mr. Lane. Mr. Tozier advised me to commence legal proceedings at once, but I was not directly interested in that one particular claim and I did not care to start any more litigation in Buckeye as I have had more than my share. Myself and brothers have done everything in our power to help develop the mines as well as bringing such men as Mr. Lane, who I can positively say after an acquaintance of thirty years is an honorable gentleman, as well as a thorough business man. I can further say that Mr. Lane did not give up the mine in order to get hold of outside property, as stated in one of the papers. The bond was returned to me and canceled.

I have a great deal more that I could say in the matter, but I am not a first-class newspaper reporter, and will cut this short by saying that I or anybody else should encourage capital to invest in the development of the country. My advice to the people of the vicinity would be not to throw any mud but on the other hand do all in their power to help them along, and by so doing we would soon have a lively community, such as Angels Camp where I just returned from.

I will do the best I can with my limited amount of capital in Buckeye, and I hope we may all be happy yet.

CHEAP CUSTOM WORK A DECEPTION.

A style of tailoring is rapidly gaining headway which is but an imposition upon the consumer and a detriment to the workman. The cheap custom work or what is called "special order work," is a shrewd dodge for the purpose of deceiving the customer into the belief that he is obtaining custom work at ready made prices. The real worth of custom work lies in the exactness of the fit, and the thoroughness in which it is made. Cheap custom work is therefore inferior to ready made work.

Large concerns, some also engaged in ready made work have grown up of late and depend for patronage upon retail stores, and have numerous agents scattered everywhere soliciting orders and gain trade because of the strikingly cheap prices offered for goods made to order. As a rule these agents seldom obtain an order twice from the same person.

It is about time that this scheme was exposed to the people and ABE COHN of the EMPORIUM shows up the fraud. If you want clothes that fit and are tried on as often as is necessary call at the EMPORIUM Court House Building, Carson City, Nevada.
